Mother's day was observed Sunday at Camp Zachary Taylor, where the supply of 10,000 carnations was quickly exhausted.

French troops on the Flanders front again improved their positions north of Kemmel village Sunday, and took more than 100 prisoners.

Former King Constantine, of Greece, has suffered a relapse, and his condition is regarded as grave. Members of the royal family are at the bedside of the former monarch and others are being called to Zurich, where the patient now is.

Members of the senate military committee, who attended a conference of the war council at the war department Saturday, returned to the senate with details of fresh discouragements in the nation's program for aircraft production. They learned that the Bristol heavy fighting plane, upon which great dependence was placed, turned out to be a failure, as no suitable motor can be found. The committee also learned that the manufacture of heavy ordnance is almost at a standstill.

So confident is the entente of its ability to withstand any drive the Germans can launch, that it has been decided not to use the American army until it becomes a complete and powerful force. It will be held in reserve for the invasion of Germany and the advance on Berlin. News of the British statement that the entente is so confident of its ability to hold the Germans that the American army is not to be used until it becomes a complete and self-supporting force, was received by army officers in Washington with frank delight, not only because of the supreme confidence indicated by such a decision but on account of the keen desire of American military men to take the field against the enemy as a distinctly American force.

Mme. Botchkareva, founder of the famous Russian women's "battalion of death," arrived at a Pacific port Sunday en route to France, where she said, she expected to meet death on the battlefield. Mme. Botchkareva left Moscow disguised in a Russian peasant's garb. She has been followed by agents of the bolsheviks, who sought to carry out instructions, which, she said, had been issued by the bolsheviks, to kill her on sight. In a far east port, Mme. Botchkareva said she was given sanctuary on an English man-o-war. "I formed the battalion of death," said Mme. Botchkareva, "to avenge the death of my husband and to combat Prussian aggression in Russia. I am on my way to France, where I will enter service with the first contingent that will accept me. I expect to die on the battlefield."

Suffering Described As Torture
Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks. He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture."

I sent and bought Theodor's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Theodor's Black-Draught."

Theodor's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it! NC-131

FEARED APPETITE OF "SEAL"

One Time That Theodore Roosevelt, When Small Boy, Would Willingly Have Dodged Church.

Appropos the going out of existence of the Madison Square Presbyterian church, Madison avenue and Twenty-fourth street, New York, by its absorption into the "Old" First Presbyterian church, there is being told many a story of celebrities connected with this famous church. One relates to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who was reared there, his father, Theodore Roosevelt, being an officer.

"Teddy" was a good boy and went to church every Sunday, even seeming to enjoy the long sermons of the late Rev. Dr. William Adams, who was pastor for 40 years. But one day there came a Sunday morning when the boy was not so zealous about accompanying his father.

After service on that fateful morning Mr. Roosevelt went up to speak to Mr. Adams. "Teddy" did not want to go. But his father insisted. Once by the pulpit the face of the child turned pale, his hand in that of his father's became cold, and the child clung closely to his father's coat.

Mr. Roosevelt looked down, scared, and asked: "My son, what is the trouble? I never knew you to be afraid of anything before in your life, and there is nothing in the church to harm you, anyway."

"Father, father," gasped the boy, "I am afraid the 'seal' will eat me, too." The previous Sunday Doctor Adams had preached on a text from Psalm 23:3. "For the seal of this house hath eaten me up."

Library for Every School.

In the past we have thought relatively too much about teaching people how to read and not enough about getting them to read after they learn how.

To develop "the reading habit" in each pupil should be one of the chief aims of every teacher, says the Progressive Farmer. Train any child so he likes to read, so he is a real book lover, and he will educate himself even if he never goes to school another day. Moreover, if a school has a good library it should aid greatly in educating the older people whose school days are over, but whose learning days should never be over. The saying of old Thomas Carlyle, "The true university of these days is a collection of books," cannot be too often repeated.

Thought He Was Neglected.

Billy Boy was the only child at the table, consequently the only one with a bib. As he looked and saw all the others with napkins in their laps he asked "Why can't I have one of those big bibs to keep my knees warm, too?"

Lamb Steaks Recommended.

One item of waste in the meat trade of this country has been in the slaughter of lightweight lambs for fancy consuming demand, and the Butcher's Advocate calls attention to the fact that heavy lambs are the staple in England and Canada, and that butchers there make a practice of reducing hind quarters for leg of lamb to the size desired by the average family, cutting off lamb steaks for separate sale. If retail butchers in this country would handle heavy lambs in that way, building up trade for lamb steaks, which are considered fine meat, says the Butcher's Advocate, it would be possible to raise market lambs to greater weights, increase the meat supply, and probably bring better profits to the grower.

CROFTON VISIT

(By Ben King Harned.)

On Friday night the Orchestra went to Crofton to play for the benefit of the Red Cross. Three Crofton Ford and two Hopkinsville cars furnished the transportation. The Ford mission departed six-fifty and arrived at seven-twenty. The Hopkinsville cars avoiding the danger of being run over and not desiring to be harassed by our dust brought up the rear and arrived twenty minutes later.

After we had reached the city and driven several times around "The Square" before we could stop, we thought we had seen enough of the city not to get lost and so our chauffeurs left us to bring some fair dames to the concert. We found our way to the church and as no one had yet arrived the instruments were deposited and then we visited the city. We found that the concert had been widely advertised on the sidewalks and so we walked lightly to avoid erasing the notices and continued our survey of the city.

When we returned to the church the crowd was beginning to assemble and so the members of the Orchestra promptly took their places. At eight forty-five, Prof. Likess, of the Crofton High School, introduced Director Mallory and his orchestra. The program started immediately.

Miss Florence Bassett presided at the piano with her usual grace and dignity. Henry Abernathy nursed his crying baby like a professional and in fact all of the violinists almost brought life to their fiddle strings. Whitehead and Thomas, two recent additions to the orchestra, played wonderfully on the flutes and Mr. Swatty, a relic of one of Sousa's bands put the old time style on clarinet. The cornetists played with a vim of army buglers and distinguished themselves in the eyes of all present. "Sherman" sawed the cello with the grace and ease of a wood nymph, and Ruby Scott with the drums occupied the pulpit together with the other Liberty Bond posters.

During the intermission Director Mallory made a short speech and told the audience that the orchestra was devoting their time to patriotic causes this year and they were glad to be able to help them in their Red Cross work.

After a splendid program of patriotic music which was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd and enthusiastic crowd the orchestra returned home.

CHEERED BY WOMEN.

London's big Sunday newspapers yesterday were filled with praise of the American troops who paraded in London Saturday. "Londoners cheered as they have not cheered for many months, but it was the women who gave the Americans a special welcome. 'God bless you,' they cried all along the line," is the comment of Lloyd's Weekly News.
